14	2014-11-24 12:26:50	Yes	Yes, I think you need to clearly understand your 'cost to serve' each ratepayer else it is impossible to establish how much of a rate increase is warranted. You need to publish the 'cost to serve' information and budgeted or projected against this figure on your website for ratepayers to review. At this point, I am undecided as to whether a rate increase is warranted because this information is not yet available.	NARROMINE	Narromine	No - I am not supportive	Yes	Farmland	Provided
15	2014-11-25 11:20:54	Yes	The info sheet was convoluted and repetitive - simplification would be better.	NARROMINE	Narromine	Conditional - I would prefer a lower increase with a reduced service level	Yes	Residential	Not provided

16	2014-11-26	No	You need to provide a better guarantee that the permanent doubled increase will not go beyond 2 years. eg. like high way tolls have in Sydney.You stated you can reduce and cut resources and services but you don't state the resources and services you are talking about or what the reductions would involve. Its very general and not specific enough to make a decision.You constantly bring up the increased rate rises through out the document like you have already made your decision.I live on a small farm so I don't really get value for the dollar with my rates anyway. The dirt road is bad no water available and no garbage collection. So I would be paying more for no services,	TOMINGLEY	Not Applicable	No - I am not supportive	Yes	Residential	Not provided

20	2014-11-27 12:29:32	Yes	the results would be more believable if your graphs were not shown in a disproportionate manner. The scales are the same but you have enlarged one and not the other, a method used to make results look different at a glance as found in propaganda surveys	NARROMINE	Narromine	No - I am not supportive	Yes	Farmland	Not provided
21	2014-11-29 09:55:22	Yes	Information should be posted on the notice boards at the shopping centre. Stronger emphasis on the actual $ increase over the two years may help (this is a small increase but people do not work on their family budgets in percentage terms, they want to know actual dollars (and break it down to weekly increase of about $0.66 over the two years).
