Submission: I absolutely do NOT want a Sydney mega-council & am totally opposed to such a proposal for many reasons some personal, some outlined by the current city of sydney printed material, some based on studies of other cities where such amalgamations have occurred & were not hugely successful, so what is the reason for moving ahead with something as pointless & unnecessary as this?!?!?

the city is currently already big enough & just manageable, however anything bigger will definitely have a negative impact on the city & cannot be sustainable as it grows into the future, it will stunt the future growth & prosperity of such an amazing city. the city currently functions well at its current size so this should NOT & CANNOT go ahead!
