

Author name: B. WATSON-WILL

Date of submission: Thursday, 10 February 2022

Your submission for this review:

The majority of rate revenue collected is for waste and recycling services. This has usually been the case. However, these days with the emphasis on recycling of extremely valuable components, all private and government contractors who win the right for recycling have extra income from those components, reducing the need for landfill and mining raw resources. These companies have had it so good for many years now and will continue to appreciate enormous amounts of income, especially when more and more companies establish recycling plants. Councils these days appear to waste enormous amounts of money on things and events they should not, and get back to basics, Roads (top priority for community safety), Rates (Used for the betterment of our communities) and Rubbish (That's where recycling and the enormous benefits of money saving should be passed down to ratepayers.)