Submission: Ever since people considering the future and energy needs for our world, in Australian we have witnessed the disincentives of having solar panels to on our rooftops. In NSW starting out at 60c kWh, then 20c, then 10c and 7c, these reductions have been disgraceful. With the major political parties flogging off the account providers, then the poles and wires, forcing up power prices there are no incentives and politicians don't seem to care about the future still burning fossil fuels. IPART MUST ensure that there is no talk of further disincentives whereby solar panel providers will be forced the pay for the privilege to put power back into the grid. It's up to our politicians to now wake up and strengthen the grid, encourage more solar and wind farms, and STOP selling coal to 3rd world countries and the Chinese, encouraging other countries to do the same.
