

Author name: Name suppressed

Date of submission: Sunday, 10 November 2024

Your submission for this review:

the increases being canvassed are both excessive and unwarranted, given that there is no shortage of water and there is a current cost of living crisis. Accordingly, increases of water rates as proposed would not be well received by the electorate. The government should factor in population growth through immigration and increased home building and finance the infrastructure required in advance, that would be sensible and good policy