What governance will there be for ensuring clarity and traceability before, during and after this process? These additional costs WCC puts on developers will eventually come from the pockets of residents back to the developers, so I feel there should be some appreciation of the flow of money and what value that brings to residents new and existing seeing its going to be them who pays for it. This sounds like a spin of additional rates without going through the rates increase process but passing it off as a charge to a commercial entity instead. I really dont want any perception that wcc is trying to avert the purpose of such nsw regulations, policy and process
