

Author name: Name suppressed

Date of submission: Tuesday, 5 November 2024

Your submission for this review:

Capital costs for new developments should be borne by developers. It is inappropriate for people who have paid for the existing infrastructure for their home to be levied for new developments. We have already paid for our infrastructure. The proposed size of the increases are unaffordable for me and most people in my circumstances as an age pensioner.