Submission: No problems participating in this new scheme, and contributing our 'dues' - however it's a shame more can't be done about those who are not registered as they should be, and as such are getting a competitive advantage in their pricing. Likewise if the revisions to labelling could be expedited, it would make it a lot more transparent who is and is not participating by the rules. This affects my business significantly, as I am the authorised importer of a beverage, however there are a number of parallel importers of the same product, who completely disregard their obligations for correct regulatory labelling - new mandatory labelling requirements around the CDS would both expose and help police this problem.
